Air Choice One is pleased to announce flights have resumed as scheduled.

St. Louis, Missouri – August 26, 2008 – Air Choice One announced today scheduled flights have resumed and the airline is in compliance with the FAA Operations Specifications paperwork. Shane Storz, Vice President and CEO of Air Choice One Airlines had voluntarily instigated the cancellation of flights scheduled August 22, 2008 through August 26, 2008 to ensure precise and complete compliance with Federal Aviation Operation Specifications. This inspection was related to a detailed, technical compliance issue and not a safety-of-flight issue.

Safety above all else is important to the successful operations of any airline. The attention to detail, the quality of the maintenance, the quality of the inspections, and meticulous record keeping means that the planes stay in the air longer – safer. That in turns means more flights, more seats sold, and profitability to the company. That cannot be obtained without proper document control.

“Today’s announcement is another example of how Air Choice One continues to take concrete steps in an effort to manage through the current industry challenges,” said Shane Storz, Vice President and CEO of Air Choice One.” “We regret and apologize for causing inconvenience to our customers and are pleased to announce flights have resumed as scheduled.”
